

Be a Forester Host Family

When America's best college baseball players come to Santa Barbara to play for the Foresters, they stay with generous and welcoming HOST FAMILIES. These young men are very appreciative, make a small footprint, and can enrich a family's summer experience immensely. Most host families feel they have gained far more than they have given as they get to know these fine young men.

If you have room in your home and heart, you can be a host family too!

- Players are responsible for following your House Rules and for getting themselves to practices and games
- Host families receive a season pass
- Host families host a player for 6-8 weeks (most of June and all of July)
- Host families provide a safe environment and some meals
- Some families have been hosting players each summer for a decade
- Some players have become lifelong "members" of their host families

"Having a Foresters player in our home is a wonderful experience for our family. Our son gained valuable insight not just about baseball, but about life. We are all enriched by our relationship with these wonderful young men."
